IMPORTANCE OF OUR TRADE.
Livestock.—What do livestock keepers in the United States amount to? What do they represent? Whom do they benefit? What do they contribute to the general welfare of the community? These are all fair questions and well deserve an answer. A moment's consideration will give us all food for thought. Let us look at the questions. There are in round numbers 30,000 livestock keepers in the United States who employ on an average three men each, thus giving us 130,000 men, counting the proprietors. On the usual allowance of five for the family of each one, and we have 650,000 human beings who require shelter, clothing, warmth, food, and other necessities and in whom the grocer, butcher, baker, physician and many other trades and professions are interested. Now confining ourselves strictly to their business let us see what their probable requirements are. We have made our averages low and shall continue to do so. Every one of these stable men has horses and their feed, carriages, buggies, harness, horse clothing, whips, halters, stable tools, horse medicines, and all kinds of stable supplies which would include blankets, harness dressing, stable fixtures, horsehoes, clips, bits, elevators and the many devices invented by ingenious mechanics to lighten labor or calculated to afford advantage to horse owners. Let us try and express in dollars what the trade thus represented amounts to. Of course, there are many items that cannot be estimated, but we can find enough that will add up such a sum as will astonish not only those who depend upon the livestock stable keepers but the livestock men themselves:

Rent or its equivalent of 30,000 stables at $50 per year.....$1,500,000
Wages of 130,000 men per year.....$2,600,000
Horse-dressing.....$500,000
Feed for 300,000 horses.....$3,000,000
Carriages and buggies, allowing only one a year.....$1,000,000
Two new sets of harness yearly.....$1,000,000
The new blanket yearly.....$200,000
Our new whip yearly.....$200,000
Halters and stable tools.....$200,000
Horse-dressing and stable fixtures.....$200,000
Horsehoes and shoeing.....$200,000
For bits and other patent devices, elevators, etc., yearly.....$200,000

We have here then in round numbers fifty millions of dollars, which a slight calculation will easily show to be a ridiculously low figure. There is nothing said here of the amounts of money contributed by the livestock stable, only the amount expended. We think we have shown that the interests thus represented by this journal to the community over one hundred millions of dollars every year. Surely this is a valuable contribution. We have not attempted to include in our estimates all the comforts and conveniences furnished to the community. From the cradle to the grave we are constantly indebted to the livestock stable.

Presented Before a Large Audience Last Night.

"Single Life" was presented to a very large audience at the Opera-house last night. The drama and its story were the part in the drama rendered their part well and everyone was well pleased with the performance as was evidenced by the liberal applause.

The music was furnished by an orchestra of eleven pieces and the music rendered was simply delightful, and there has been no such success in the Opera-house of late that was superior to it.

The cause was a good one and the charitable people of Maysville did not hesitate in lending a helping hand.

The sum realized last night will be quite a help to the suffering Southerners, and if other towns would follow the example of Maysville the distress of these sufferers would soon be alleviated.

The Business Way!
The business way to advertise is to take space by the year, take pains with your advertisements in making them attractive, and change them at least as often as once a month. You may think there are seasons when you don't need to advertise. We have never seen that time. Use the dull seasons for looking over your stock and running off that which is becoming out of style or unfashionable, and giving bargains. If you have space by the year, it costs you no more, and you can make it profitable by converting unsalable goods into money, and reinvesting the money in those things which are salable.

Where is That Banner Now?
Greenberg (Ind.) Review—During the last campaign the Democrats of this city displayed a banner in their processions bearing this inscription:
NOTE FOR GROVER CLEVELAND
$100,000,000
$100,000,000
$100,000,000
A liberal reward will be paid for that banner at this office, and no questions asked.

In a sequestered room in the Capitol, away from public haunts, there gathers every day a handful of Southern statesmen who have taken upon themselves the task of revising the Tariff. The interests they are dealing with, according to official estimates, are about as follows:
Capital invested $5,000,000,000
Annual value of products 9,000,000,000
Number of persons employed 6,000,000
Estimating the number directly employed in manufacturing and mining at 4,000,000, we have, directly and indirectly dependent upon their wages, furnished with food, clothing, and shelter, 24,000,000, possibly 30,000,000, of men, women and children. When the magnitude of our manufacturing industries is fully realized we can better understand how a threatened change in the policy which brought many branches into existence and under which they flourished should occasion such widespread ruin. Probably 90 per cent. of these great interests are located in the large cities and towns of the country, and it is these centers of industrial activity that will suffer most severely from the contemplated changes.

Who are the leading spirits engaged in this work of destruction, asks The New York Press? Where do they come from? What has been their particular training and experience qualifying them for the delicate task they are undertaking? To begin with, they are provincial statesmen of the Southern school. They come from the villages and small towns, where the principal industries are petty law squabbles and post-office politics, and where primitive grist-mills and the village smithies are the only object lessons in the way of manufacturers. And this is the school in which these Tariff reformers have received their training. A majority of the eleven Democrats on this committee and those taking an active interest in the preparation of the bill come from small towns and crossroads in the South. For instance, the Tariff views of the Chairman of the committee, Hon. WILLIAM L. WILSON, are imbibed from a place called Charleston, W. Va., population 2,887. The Hon. BENJAMIN McNEIL comes from the arched recesses of a village boasting the mighty name of Carthage, but possessing a population of 475 souls, including its members of Congress. Who ever heard of Quitman, Ga., population 1,888? From the shades of this powerful village comes the person of the Hon. HENRY G. TURNER, a man simply hungry and thirsting to destroy the industries of the larger cities. In knocking off duties, TURNER, so they say, takes the lead. From the great center of industrial energy, Pine Bluff, Ark., comes the Hon. CLYTON R. BRECKINRIDGE, another high kicker in the Free-trade cause. From the tranquil village of St. Clair, Mich., and the sleepy hollow of Elizabethtown, Ky., respectively, hail the Hon. JUSTIN RICE WHITING and the Hon. ALEXANDER R. MONTGOMERY. True, New York has one Representative, the Hon. BOWEN COCKRAN; but he takes little interest in the Tariff bill and, we believe, is now enjoying himself in Chicago.

The gentlemen from these Southern crossroads places and villages are all on deck. Carthage, Quitman and Pine Bluff, with their village smithies, their grist and saw-mills and their ancient moss grown millraces, are on top, and the mighty factories in other parts of the country, with their thousands of hands and millions of capital, are simply not in it. Millions are at stake. The happiness and future of hundreds of thousands of wage earners are trembling in the balance, while these rural gentlemen are recklessly legislating in matters they know very little about.

SORE ARMS.
Two Million Will Soon Be the Record in New York.
NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—President Wilson, of the board of health, declared that it is "going to be considered that every person in this city is vaccinated." This is a stupendous task when it is considered that there are close to 2,000,000 souls in New York, but a very good beginning has been made and the work is progressing rapidly. A day force and a night force is at work. The work will necessarily take some considerable time, and can only be done by house to house visitation.

Four night schools were visited Thursday night and upwards of 600 pupils were vaccinated. Nine inspectors were detailed Friday night to six other night schools. The vaccinators nearly finished their work Friday among the employees in the big establishments. All the employees of hotels have been inoculated, as have the hundreds of children at the New York Infant asyrum at Mt. Vernon. The vaccinators will not get through with the inmates of the public hospitals on Blackwell's and Ward's Islands before the middle of next week. Next week, however, Wall street brokers and their employees will be required to expose their arms for vaccination. The work will be begun among the 3,000 odd members of the police force also next week, and after that the firemen. The newspaper offices will next be visited by the vaccinators.

CIRCUS TRAIN WRECKED.
One Thousand Killed and About a Dozen Seriously Hurt.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 21.—A disastrous rear-end collision occurred at Bridgeport, five miles east of this city, early Friday morning. Barnum's show was running in five sections. The first section, being heavily loaded, was pulling very slowly up a heavy grade, going about two or three miles an hour. Suddenly, without instant warning, the second section, a light train, came dashing around a curve at twenty-five miles an hour and crashed into the rear of the first section. Two rear sleeping cars were telescoped and the occupants pinned in their berths or thrown violently to the front end of the train. About a dozen were hurt, half being seriously, and one, at least, fatally injured.

The killed and injured are as follows:
Frank Everett, New York, both legs cut off, died in a few minutes after being removed from the wreck.
George Gilmore, New York, injured internally; thought several times during the day to be dying; may recover.
Robert Nelson, New York, J. P. Frederick, Allentown, Pa.; Harry Marshall, Pittsburgh; Nathaniel Merrill, New York; Charles Mills and E. R. Richey, Honesdale, Pa., were seriously, but none fatally injured.

GOLD IN OHIO.
The Metal Supposed to Be Lurking Near Oak Grove.

PEELERS, O., Oct. 21.—Intense excitement is prevailing in the vicinity of Oak Grove, a small place in Liberty township, over the discovery of gold ore on what is known as the Robert Matthews farm. The discovery was made by some workmen, who were digging a well on the top of a large hill. The hill was supposed to be something of no value, and knew nothing of the rich discovery until a party of Cincinnati prospectors, who had been in the vicinity, pronounced it pure gold. Fabulous prices have already been offered for land adjoining, but all offers have so far been refused. Mr. Matthews, who at present has control of the land, leaves Saturday for Cincinnati to have the ore tested.

Lively Hotel Fire.
TOLEDO, O., Oct. 21.—The Hotel Hamilton annex was gutted by fire, and its guests had narrow escapes from death. The fire broke out in the rear of the building, was in a room where the building was overpowered by smoke, and was carried out by the firemen. Frank Matthews fell in the hallway and was nearly asphyxiated. Several others had narrow escapes. The loss to the hotel was $5,000.

Twenty-Seventh Victim.
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 21.—At 10:46 Friday night it was reported from the hospital that Frank H. Smith of Ft. Wayne, N. Y., whose limbs were badly crushed in the Battle Creek railroad collision, so as to compel amputation, could not live more than an hour. This brings the death list up to twenty-seven.

Germany's War Minister Resigns.
BERLIN, Oct. 21.—Emperor William has accepted the resignation of Gen. Von Kallenberg-Stachau, minister of war. Gen. Bronsard-Schellendorf, who has succeeded Gen. Kallenberg-Stachau as minister of war, has already had experience in that position, having been war minister from 1883 to 1888.

Col. McClure Seriously Ill.
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The condition of Col. McClure steadily grows worse, and it is not believed that he can much longer withstand the strain upon his system. The patient is delirious and it is now said that in addition to his other ailments, acute Bright's disease of the kidneys has developed.

Mail Delivery.
LIMA, O., Oct. 21.—Two occupants of the city jail broke prison and escaped by removing a hot-air register and reaching the cellar, from which they walked to the post office building, the sixth jail delivery in this city within four months. Two thieves, wanted in Indiana, are among the fugitives.

Wants a Divorce.
COLUMBUS, Oct. 21.—Afo-American of Cincinnati will be interested in the divorce suit instituted at Delaware, O., Friday by Walter Thomas, the well-known politician. Mrs. Thomas, the defendant, was born and raised in the Queen City.

DISOBEDIENCE
Causes Another Terrible Railroad Wreck.
Twenty-Six Corpses and a Number of Wounded Recovered.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Oct. 21.—The worst wreck of this year on New York's Great Trunk Line, close to the round house in this city, by which at least twenty-six persons lost their lives and double as many more were badly injured. A Raymond & Whitcomb special train of passengers from New York to Boston was returning from Chicago. The train was in charge of Conductor Scott, of this city, and Engineer Woolley, and took orders at the station to meet at Nichols No. 9, the Pacific express going west, due at this station at 1:35 o'clock this morning, but which was three hours late.

The conductor or engineer, or both, of the Raymond special, disobeyed orders and passed Nichols station and collided with the Pacific express coming west at the rate of about thirty miles an hour. The two engines were derailed, both engines and cars were wrecked. The one on the express was No. 155, a new Cook engine, in use only two weeks.

The engineers and firemen when they saw that a collision was inevitable, shut off steam, reversed engines, put on brakes and all jumped and escaped without serious injury. The engineer of the Pacific express was named Gil Cranshaw and the conductor Burt. The conductor was badly hurt by being caught in the cars. When the collision took place the second and third day coaches on No. 9, the train going east, were completely telescoped. It was in these cars that the horrible sacrifice of life took place. The second coach cut through the third coach, and the two coaches were hurled over the heads of the sleeping and ill-fated passengers, who were completely entombed as if in a furnace.

The passengers in the four coaches were more or less injured, and in one of them (No. 13, called the unlucky coach, which has been in several accidents before) a knife and several bodies taken from the wreck Friday morning. They were pinned under the seats and jammed up against the end of the coach by the next coach, which had telescoped it, and then burned like rats in a trap. The accident was a mile from the fire station, and before water could be turned on the cars were all burned. One on the Raymond special was injured.

The Pacific express was made up of thirteen odd coaches, and four of them were completely burned, catching fire from the lamps in the cars. The bodies were burned so badly as to be unrecognizable. Nearly all had their heads and arms or legs burned off, and can not be identified as yet. As the second car was driven back into the third it swept the people in a mass to the rear of the cars. The night watchman, who was on duty in the vicinity of the store, before which most of the bodies were afterwards found. The cars took fire, and in an instant they were in a blaze, and the firemen and the neighbors in the vicinity were on the scene as soon as possible.

One passenger escaped through a doorway. Others who escaped mashed into the windows and climbed through. Only three escaped from the left side, and one from the right side. All of the rest of the occupants of the second coach perished. The most horrible sight was that presented by Mrs. Charles Van Hook of Fort Plain, N. Y. She succeeded in getting half way out of the window, but her legs were fastened, and those who ran to her assistance could not release her. She was burned to death before they were with one-half of her body still hanging out of the window. Her death came as a relief, as she was suffering she gave her name.

Henry Canfield, one of the night watchmen of the Chicago and Grand Trunk offices, heard the crash, and immediately pulled the fire alarm box, and then telephoned the engine-house and informed them of the wreck. The firemen responded promptly, but the wreck was over a mile away. The distance of the nearest hydrant from the wreck and after the delay of driving the hose wagon between the cars and tracks, delayed them till the fire had gained considerable headway.

The awful work of rescuing the dead and injured was not completed until 9 o'clock Friday morning, when the last body was taken from the wreckage. Sufficient stretchers were not to be had, and the workers nailed boards together on which the charred bodies were laid and carried away as they were extricated. A temporary morgue was made of a freight car in which the disfigured bodies were placed in chairs of local undertakers. So horribly burned and charred are the bodies lying in this impromptu morgue that it is hardly possible their names will ever be known. At 9 o'clock twenty-six dead bodies had been taken out of the ruins of the wrecked cars, and this is supposed to be the total number of victims.

As fast as the charred suitcases, valises, pocketbooks, watches, etc., were recovered from the debris, they were taken to the city hall. It is hoped that some of these grim relics will give a clue to the identity of some of those who met such a awful death. Many of the pocketbooks of gold and one of the pocketbooks contained nearly $500.

THE PRESIDENT

Gives It Out That The Proposed
Compromise

On the Sherman Purchase Act Will Be Vetted By Him.

Against the Situation in the Senate Becomes Mixed-Democratic Senators Begin to Talk of Shifting and Go Ahead
On Their Own Responsibility.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—A general plan of settlement had been agreed on by the democratic caucus or steering committee, to which it was hoped the administration would assent, so as to smooth its pathway in the senate and house.

The pleasant promise of the Voorhes bill, pledging the government to the policy of bimetallism was to be retained for the time being, and may be worth. The seigniorage in the treasury was to be coined. All bills payable $10 were to be retained except the silver certificates. The power of the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds under the resumption act of 1875 was to be recognized by declaring that the bonds to be issued under such law
should not bear over 3 per cent. interest,
and should be redeemable at the option of the holder after five years. Nothing was said as to the use of such bonds as a basis for banking purposes, but under the old law
they could be used for such a purpose.

It was hoped that the president would go so far as to say that he saw no objection to this plan. He had rejected a suggestion for purchasing the same amount of silver in the aggregate, with a provision for extending the time to four years, and he was even unwilling to have the suggestion made in his own discretion after July 1, 1893.

The silver members of the committee would be willing to take January 1, 1893, as a compromise. The president, but with a risk of losing some democratic votes for the compromise. With the date of July 1, 1893, for terminating the silver purchase act, it is asserted that fifty-eight votes in the senate
could be secured for the proposition.

It would, of course, enhance a number of republican senators. It turned out, however, Friday, that the president was obstinate and unaccom-modating. His position was expressed by himself, but by Secretary Carlisle, and most unmistakably. To say that this unexpected hitch has provoked great irritation among the democrats who have been endeavoring to frame a settlement which would relieve the political and business situation, is putting the case very correctly.

Some senators say that the president is intoxicated with the idea of his power and popularity, and wants to bend everything to his own will. This feeling is not confined to those senators who have been classed as silver senators, but extends to some of those who have been ranked all along as most extreme and enthusiastic supporters of the president's financial policy. There is talk of their losing some of the senate seats, and to work for itself and framing a settlement and financial adjustment, even should it touch the saving grace of the executive prerogative. This feeling may ripen into action if the administration continues to throw obstacles in the way of a compromise.

It becomes an interesting question,
how far the republican senators would co-operate with democratic senators in making a compromise. There are some eleven or twelve silver republicans, and there are others quite prominent who, though favoring repeal, are resolved not to be ready for a compromise. Mr.
Quay has already submitted a proposition looking to a prolongation of silver purchases up to January 1, 1896. If a fair majority of the democrats and republicans should support a scheme for compromise, extending purchases say to July 1, 1893, it is not unlikely that enough republicans would vote for it to secure its passage.

Indeed, there is high authority for the statement that such co-operation is a fair compromise and is secured.
In such case the house of representatives would probably concur in the proposition, and the president would have to choose between a veto and signing a bill to which he and his cabinet were not friendly.

There are some people who think he would consider a veto as an aid to his popularity, though it might divide the democratic party.

The result of this situation was that congress adjourned Friday with a feeling of tension, gloom and uncertainty.
This is liable to be changed at any moment by timely compromise on the executive, or failing that, it may develop into a renewal of the late bitter and angry contention.

Tried to Murder His Old Employer.
St. Louis, Oct. 21.—W. L. Sturgess

Sturgess, who was recently discharged

the executioner stepped on the trap, and was perfectly cool and self-possessed.

HE COMMITTED SUICIDE!

The Cause and its Lesson.

Why did he commit suicide? Oh! for the same reason that thousands of others are on the verge of the same sin, or in immediate danger of insanity, paralysis, idiocy, or by delirium, or by delirium, or by any nervous affection. He knew he was afflicted with a nervous disorder, but was careless, apparently indifferent to the outcome, or he may have lessened his chances for recovery by treating with physicians who had little or no knowledge of such a nervous ailment, who had serious and sick-headache, biliousness, dizziness, irritability,
melancholy, failing memory, hot flashes,
